Please note the University of British Columbia's Research Ethics Boards do not provide a stamped seal of approval on informed consent form documents.

The RISE system tracks study approval information which is reflected on each Certificate of Approval. Certificates of Approval are generated based on the version number and date which is listed in the RISE application form; this is why it is important to ensure those dates match what is listed on the actual informed consent form document.

This applies to all documentation submitted via the RISE system; all approved documents are clearly listed on each Certificate of Approval.

Please pass this information on to your study sponsors, if required.
